

WEST LIKELY TO SUCCEED HOLLAND

Suffolk Man Mentioned for State Senate in Next Summer's Primaries.

Since the nomination of Senator Holland for Congress, which will prevent his candidacy for re-election to the State Senate, it is believed both in Suffolk and in Richmond that Colonel J. E. West, now the member of the House of Delegates from Nansemond county, will be his successor.

Colonel West was prominently mentioned for the congressional nomination at the time a new primary was ordered in the Second District, but determined instead to support his friend, Senator Holland. He fought hard for the latter's success throughout the convention, being one of its active members.

During the session of the Legislature last winter Colonel West was aggressive in several directions. He introduced and earnestly advocated the passage of a bill legalizing primaries, which was, however, defeated. He was co-sponsor of the bill providing for the examination and analysis of agricultural seeds, which is now a law.

One bill which he then and now regards as covering a most important problem he succeeded in getting favorably reported from the committee, but it died on the calendar. This was intended to be the opening wedge of the fight on the fee system, although it was mild in effect, merely requiring officers whose income is in whole or in part from fees to keep a record of all amounts received, open to public inspection, so that the people might know how much money their officers were getting from positions to which they had been elected by the citizens.

The district is composed of the counties of Nansemond, Isle of Wight and Southampton and the city of Suffolk.

Widow of Clifford Smith Declares That She Did Not Neglect Him.

So many conflicting reports have been circulated in South Richmond in regard to the recent suicide of Clifford Smith that his widow, Mrs. Mollie Smith, gave out a statement yesterday denying neglect on her part in calling a physician. Her statement, addressed to whom it may concern, follows:

"As serious statements have been made in the newspapers in reference to the death of my husband, Clifford Smith, I desire to say there was no neglect upon my part in calling in medical aid when I realized his condition. He came home on Saturday afternoon, as he usually did, under the influence of liquor, and as it was his custom, went out in the yard and went to sleep as he usually did when in that condition."

"I was ignorant of his having taken any drug and supposed that when he awoke he would be all right, and when I found that he did not I at once sent for a physician, and all was done for him that medical skill could do, and there is no blame to be attached to any one. I do not believe that my husband took any drug with suicidal intent."

LEAGUE FRANCHISE MACHANGELANDS

New Association to Be Formed in Lynchburg to Manage Baseball.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)
Lynchburg, Va., October 20.—(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)—It is believed that an open association is more preferable to the one now existing and operating the Lynchburg franchise in the Virginia League, the directors of the old association have issued a call to the owners of the city for a general meeting at the Y. M. C. A. next Monday night, to take steps looking to the formation of a general association to take over the baseball franchise and to foster all local sports in the future.

The directors of the old association are desirous of having it understood that this is not a move to unload on the baseball-lovers, but to give them a chance to have a voice in the affairs of the baseball team, and by this means create a greater interest in the city in baseball than there has been in the past.

The association owes debts, but it is going to take care of these, without asking the fans to help provide the cost of baseball, since the franchise was purchased from J. J. Grimm in July, 1908. The franchise will be offered to the new association at a price to be agreed upon by representatives of both organizations, but this will not be sufficient to liquidate the debts of the old association. Therefore, it will be necessary for the old stockholders to go down in their pockets in order to straighten affairs out and allow the old to wind up its affairs free of debt.

AROUND THE HOTELS

"Positive hatred of anything approaching demagoguery, and the ability to approach any proposition with an open and unbiased mind, are the characteristics which have impressed themselves most prominently on me in connection with Senator Holland," said a well-known Virginia Democrat in a speech to-night. He has served in the Legislature with the Second District nominee, and knows him well.

"The Senator," he continued, "is absolutely fair and he pays no attention to popular clamor if it goes counter to his settled judgment. Take, for instance, his vote on the stroke bill regarding State-wide prohibition. His entire senatorial district was 'dry,' and probably no man in the Senate was more under greater pressure to vote for the bill. Yet he voted his convictions, regardless of his own political future."

Interest in the election of a few months has demonstrated this quality in the people of his senatorial district, which gave him a practically unanimous vote in last week's primaries.

"Then Holland is a man who can influence his colleagues. He does this not by any showy effect, but because of his unflinching courtesy, his earnestness, his hard work on committees, and his unflinching fairness. Take my word for it, these qualities will have their effect in Congress."

TRADE REPORT

Bradstreet's Saturday will say for Richmond and vicinity:

Trade conditions are irregular, some lines showing activity, while others are quiet; however, on a whole, the tendency is toward improvement as the fall season advances. A falling off in building and construction work has decreased the demand for lumber, and this line is dull. Manufacturers of trunks, bags and suit cases are active; the same may be said of harness and saddlery. Wholesale dry goods dealers report fair orders, but in this and other lines sold in long period terms the tendency of conservative buying is a feature, orders placed being less in volume than is customary at this season. Produce is in demand. A slight decrease in the price of provisions has stimulated buying. Continued favorable reports of the cotton crop in North Carolina are received, and with continued favorable weather for picking, the crop will average a better yield than that of last year.

Mary Joseph Won't Go There Because of Ill Health.

In the Hustings Court yesterday Mary Joseph, convicted in the Police Court of selling whiskey without a license, pleaded guilty and was fined $100. Her physician explained to the judge that she would be physically unable to stand a jail sentence, so she was let off with the fine and required to give security in the sum of $500 for one year.

Charles Leest, colored, charged with housebreaking, was sentenced to one year and was sent to the roads. William Franklin, colored, charged with malicious wounding, was convicted of assault and battery and given four months.

JUDGE WILL GIVE DECISION MONDAY

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)
Newport News, Va., October 20.—Argument on a demurrer and motion to quash the warrants in the case of the Commonwealth against A. B. Andrews and others, officers and members of the Southeastern Underwriters' Association, was concluded in the Corporation Court to-night, and Judge Barham took the questions under advisement. He will give his decision Monday morning, and the twenty-three defendants have been granted permission to come and go at will until that time.

The argument began Monday afternoon and lasted three and a half days all seven of the attorneys engaged in the case speaking.

When Judge Barham rules upon the demurrer and motion to quash he practically will have passed upon all the law in the case. If he sustains the contentions of the defendants the proceedings will be at an end, but if he overrules their contentions the facts only will have to be dealt with.

The defendants are charged with unlawfully conspiring to fix and control the rates of fire insurance in this city. The prosecution was instituted by Commonwealth's Attorney C. C. Berkley, after the Underwriters' Association had added a 10 per cent. penalty to local rates on account of the action of the City Council in raising the license tax on insurance companies.

RAIN PREVENTS VETERANS' PARADE

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)
Norfolk, Va., October 20.—Dripping skies and a chilly northwesterly breeze threw an effectual wet blanket over the proceedings of the last day of the Confederate Reunion, and the parade, which had been planned to end the celebration in a blaze of martial display, was practically abandoned.

The procession had been scheduled to leave Commercial Place at 10 o'clock, to march a mile. Instead the thin, gray line marched at 11 o'clock and proceeded directly to the steamer Maryland, at the New York, Philadelphia and Norfolk line wharf, to embark for a joy ride around the harbor. The parade was small, but it made up in enthusiasm what it lacked in numbers.

The threatening clouds had partially rolled away by 11 o'clock, and the more hardy veterans, with the Spanish-American Veterans, two bands and the Sons of Veterans and Confederate Chorus, assembled at the Confederate

The bugle and drum corps from the receiving ship Franklin got busy, and the sidewalks lined with people waiting for the parade to begin. The grand marshal, H. C. Hogard, announced the original program had been changed, and that the line of march would be directly to the wharf.

At 4 o'clock this afternoon the State Corporation Commission to the following concerns:

Peters Distributing Company (Inc.), Richmond, Va., Incorporators: J. H. Peters, president, Culpeper, Va.; H. C. Peters, secretary and treasurer, Richmond, Va.; H. E. Plippen, Richmond, Va.; Maximum, $15,000; minimum, $1,000. Object: Liquor business.

Jefferson Loan Society (Inc.), Norfolk, Va., Incorporators: W. B. Hosgood, president, Philadelphia, Pa.; C. H. Consove, vice-president, Norfolk; Willard T. Cook, secretary and treasurer, Norfolk; Harry K. Wolcott, Norfolk, Va.

A trip around the harbor and grand ball to the sponsors and maids of honor this evening closed the entertainment features.

News of South Richmond

South Richmond Bureau.

The Times-Dispatch.

1103 11th Street.

Condemnation proceedings against the Lumpkin property, which the city is hoping to acquire for the new school to be made of the courthouse ground, was instituted in Hustings Court, Part 2, yesterday morning.

Clara W. Lumpkin, Lula C. Lumpkin, William W. Lumpkin, Robert E. B. L. and A. D. Lumpkin are the persons interested. The property, which is a beautiful one and the first in the history of "Manchester," is awaiting the order for the removal of the fire department and the police station.

This will be started as soon as the fire house and quarters for the Police Department have been provided. It is also possible that this new park will be given over as a playground for the city.

Such a plan has come in vogue in many cities and suburbs, and is being favored by many citizens. The present Y. M. C. A. here, although greatly enlarged of late, affords small space for athletics, and none for outdoor exercises.

Tennis has been broached or late, but no property large enough can be found for even one court.

The park, when finished, will be one of which any community should be proud. The situation and surroundings are ideal. Even now nightly can be heard the glad voices of children beneath the spacious shade of trees. Every citizen spoken to has been enthusiastic for such a resting place, and many have regretted the fact that old "Manchester" never realized what has always been considered almost a necessity.
